About ELIAMEP

The Hellenic Foundation for European and Foreign Policy, more commonly known as ELIAMEP, is an independent public benefit foundation. Since 1988, it is working on the production and dissemination of evidence-based knowledge on European and foreign policy issues, with the aim to contribute to the development of more effective policies for dealing with the major challenges for our times.

ELIAMEP's work revolves around three major pillars: European integration, security and regional developments, and migration. Among the particular issues it studies are all aspects of the European integration process; security, international relations and conflict resolution (with a special focus on the Balkans and the MENA region); migration and multiculturalism; democracy, human rights and civic participation; and the political and socio-economic implications of environmental issues, such as climate change or the depletion of conventional energy resources. The Foundation's focus may from time to time shift in order to remain relevant for policy-making.

ELIAMEP's research findings and the policy recommendations it develops based on these are disseminated among stakeholders and the public at large through various information activities, such as publications, the provision of information to the media, and events, ranging from public discussions and lectures to scientific conferences, experts' meetings, training seminars and presentations at school.

ELIAMEP is independent and polyphonic and does not promote the views or interests of governmental, political or private actors.

Its activities are funded primarily through grants awarded to it through competitive procedures in support of specific projects, sponsorships, donations and fees for the provision of research services.

ELIAMEP is governed by a Board of Directors, comprising 13 members from various relevant professional backgrounds who participate in it in their personal capacity. Its staff includes a large number of distinguished experienced, as well as promising young researchers from various disciplines, usually affiliated to it on the basis of specific projects, and a small administrative support team.

Message from the President

Dear friends,

Like everyone else living in Greece, ELIAMEP has been affected in many ways by the crisis. Although the crisis is not over yet, we can say with a degree of certainty, and even perhaps with some twist of optimism, that ELIAMEP is emerging stronger from this ordeal.

With a small but carefully selected team of researchers, ELIAMEP ranks among the top 5 institutions, along with major universities, in the Socio-Economic Sciences and Humanities sector in Greece, both in terms of number and value of the projects awarded to it by the European Commission. International rankings of think-tanks put it at the top of the list among its counterparts in South Eastern Europe. Personalities of an international caliber are using ELIAMEP as a forum to express their opinions and our own researchers are actively participating in the Greek and European public debates. Recently the European Research Council approved the first large-scale project in the Socio-Economic Sciences and Humanities to be implemented in Greece. And it will be hosted at ELIAMEP. We also launched the Crisis Observatory, an important initiative with international outreach and financial support from the Niarchos Foundation, whereas research programs on European Union developments, the Balkans and the Middle East continue to run successfully. Furthermore, ELIAMEP's research presence on migration and, more recently, energy issues has been strengthened. This year we organized the 11th European Seminar, an annual event which gathers well-known analysts and practitioners from various countries to discuss topical European issues.

To our many friends from Greece and abroad, to all our donors and associates, we owe our sincere thanks and a promise that, as far as we can, we will keep working hard in order to build a strong Greece and a strong Europe and a world where differences are dealt with through dialogue and rules that equally apply to all, and not with the use of force.

Loukas Tsoukalis
President of the Board of Directors

2013 Milestones

The Crisis Observatory is a new initiative of ELIAMEP, launched in 2013 with the support of the Stavros Niarchos Foundation. Its main goal is to become a hub for information, research and debate concerning the Greek and the European crises. By presenting serious and sober research, interventions and information that is based on well-documented arguments and evidence, it aspires to contribute to gradually upgrading the public debate on the crisis by setting the framework for the development of suggestions on how to exit it.

To achieve this goal, the Crisis Observatory:

- Promotes, conducts and makes publicly available new, primary research to contribute to a documented and comprehensive understanding of the repercussions of the crisis and to the development of suggestions, which should help alleviate its impact as well as lead the Greek economy to recovery.
- Provides serious, documented and wide-reaching – as far as themes and political approach go – information on the crisis.
- Provides educational material in order to build the capacity of the average citizen to understand basic aspects of the crisis.
- Intervenes in the public debate by creating a forum for the free expression of different views and policy recommendations.

In 2013, the Crisis Observatory:

- Produced 38 original publications (7 research papers, 19 policy papers and 12 op-eds)
- Submitted 2 successful research proposals (“Fragmentation and Exclusion: Understanding and Overcoming the Multiple Impacts of the Crisis” and “Impacts of the crisis on access to healthcare services: Country reports on Greece, Hungary, Ireland, Latvia and Luxembourg”).
- Organized 6 public events, including a discussion with the President of the Eurogroup, Jeroen Dijsselbloem, and its 1st Annual Conference (which was attended by more than 500 participants), as well as 2 round-table discussions.
- Provided information to numerous foreign delegations, organizations, analysts, educational organizations and journalists regarding the Greek and European crises.

From March 2013, when it went live, until the end of the year, the Observatory’s website had registered more than 29.000 visits. Its Facebook page received 795 likes and more than 69.000 unique visitors, while on Twitter it reached 220 followers.

Research Projects

European Integration

ANTICORRP (2012 -)

International collaborative project, co-funded by the EU FP7, which investigates the factors that promote or hinder the development of effective anticorruption policies

CONFRONT (2013 -)

International collaborative project, co-funded by the EU's Prevention of and Fight against Crime Programme, which aims at strengthening counter-trafficking efforts in Europe by addressing two deficiencies in the current counter-trafficking response: lack of in-depth knowledge of new forms of trafficking affecting children and lack of active involvement of the Roma community – a group at high risk of child trafficking.

Crisis Observatory (2013 -)

Established by ELIAMEP with the support of the Stavros Niarchos Foundation, the Crisis Observatory is a dedicated research unit aiming to provide well-documented information and analyses on the Greek and European crises and to promote an informed dialogue about their causes, but – most importantly – about the way out of them. Among other activities, in 2013, the Crisis Observatory also implemented the following research projects:

FRAGMEX (2013 -)

Implemented by ELIAMEP's Crisis Observatory with funding from the Greek General Secretariat for Research and Technology, this project seeks to understand and overcome the multi-level fragmentations and exclusions caused by the crisis both within and between European societies.

Impact of the crisis on healthcare services - Greece (2013 -)

Study commissioned by EUROFOUND to ELIAMEP's Crisis Observatory on the impact of the crisis on access to healthcare in Greece

New sources of cohesion (2013 -)

International collaborative project, co-funded by the EU's Europe for Citizens Programme, which seeks to collect and analyze opinions from citizens and experts alike regarding the impact of austerity policies on the European economic and social model, in order to develop a renewed narrative for the European project, relevant to citizens today.

Evaluation and improved distribution of European financial resources by Greece (2010 – 2013)

Study, funded by the Bank of Greece, on the impact EU-funded policies have had on the course of Greek economy over the years and the lessons learned from their distribution

From Austerity to Prosperity (2013 –)

International collaborative project, funded by the Mercator Foundation, which sought to shed the cultural stereotypes fueling Euroscepticism and intra-European divisions and at the same time develop concrete ideas on how to jointly exit the crisis

MEDIADEM (2010 – 2013)

International collaborative project, co-funded by the EU FP7, which sought to identify the policy processes, tools and instruments that promote or hinder policy media freedom and independence in EU member states and candidate countries

New Pact for Europe (2013 –)

International collaborative project, funded by a consortium of major European foundations, which aimed at promoting a Europe-wide debate on the three fundamental questions, which need to be answered for developing an effective response to the multi-dimensional crisis Europeans are facing: What do we need the EU for? What needs to be done? How should it be done?

PLUREL (2010 – 2013)

Implemented in the framework of a Marie Curie Intra-European Fellowship, this project sought to understand and explain limitations of religious freedoms for minority faith groups in majority Orthodox countries in Europe

Provision of independent expertise to the European Parliament in the field of AV policy (2010 -)

Framework contract awarded to a network of experts, set up by ELIAMEP, for the provision of expertise to the European Parliament in the field of audiovisual policy

Studies on the EU's Foreign Policy - Enlargement, Russia and the Neighbourhood Policy (2009-2013)

Framework contract awarded to a network of think tanks including ELIAMEP for the provision of expertise to the European on issues relating to the enlargement process, Russia and the EU's Neighbourhood Policy.

Think Global – Act European (2008 -)

International collaborative project, implemented by a consortium 16 renowned European think tanks, which aims to provide evidence-based recommendations on challenges and agenda priorities for upcoming EU presidencies

Women and the Media in the EU (2012 – 2013)

In the framework of a pan-European study commissioned by the European Institute for Gender Equality, in this project ELIAMEP examined women's presence in decision-making posts in Greek media organizations and the extent to which they have developed codes of conduct and other forms of self-regulation to obviate discrimination on the grounds of sex.

Migration

ASSESS (2013 -)

International collaborative project, co-funded by European Integration Fund, which seeks to assess the effectiveness of measures adopted at the Member State level for the integration of the most vulnerable migrant groups, such as women, children and victims of trafficking

European Web Site for Integration (2010 -)

ELIAMEP was selected, for the third year in a row, to be responsible for updating the European Web Site for Integration with information and news from Greece

Integration policies: Who benefits? (2013 –)

International collaborative project, co-funded by the European Union, which seeks to inform and engage key policy actors about how to use indicators to improve integration governance and policy effectiveness.

INTEGRATION POLICIES: WHO BENEFITS?

IRMA (2012 -)

Funded by the programme for the promotion of excellent research of the Greek Secretariat for Research and Technology, this project seeks to answer two questions that are fundamental for the governance of irregular migration: How do migration control policies affect the plans and actions of prospective (and actual) irregular migrants and why are some policies more successful than others?

MOVEACT (2011 – 2013)

International collaborative project, co-funded by the EU's Fundamental Rights and Citizenship Programme, which aimed to identify the factors that condition the political participation of intra-EU movers (EU citizens who live in a different member state from the one where they were born and/or grew up in) and to tackle the cultural and knowledge factors that prevent this political participation through a multi-media promotion.

IMNET (2012-2013)

National collaborative project, funded by the European Fund for the Integration of Third Country Nationals and national sources, for the development a cooperation network to link representatives of Mediterranean member states facing similar challenges as Greece in respect to the integration of third country nationals

Security and Regional Developments

Enhancing Youth Civic Participation in the Balkans (2011 – 2013)

Funded by the EU's Civil Society Facility, this project focused on preparing young women for active involvement in and governing of democratic changes in the Balkans, especially with regard to sensitive issues connected to the post-conflict and post-authoritarian heritage left to young generations from the times when politics was a -men only- profession.

Geopolitics of Energy (2011 -)

Dedicated research unit, established with support from the private sector, seeking to highlight the significance of a comprehensive energy strategy for the nation's security, its foreign relations and its economic development while underlying the importance of energy corporations and the potential of public, private partnerships

Programme on Middle Eastern Studies (2010 -)

Dedicated research unit, established with support from the private sector, seeking to produce and provide well-documented information and analyses on topical issues concerning the Middle East

Southeast Europe Programme (2011 -)

Dedicated research unit, established by Dr. Ioannis Armakolas in the framework of his Stavros Costopoulos Research Fellowship, which seeks to provide high quality scholarly and policy work on topical issues concerning the region of Southeast Europe. Among other activities, in 2013, the Programme implemented the following research projects:

- Albanian Elections Observatory
- Building new bridges in the Balkans: Understanding misconceptions between Greece and Kosovo (2013 -)
- How is the sovereign debt crisis affecting Greece's relations with the Balkan countries and Greece's standing the region? An initial impact assessment
- Promoting the Western Balkan accession process in the context of the Greek EU Presidency (2013)

Transversal Bridges (2013 -)

Transnational collaborative project, co-funded by the EU's Programme for the prevention of and fight against crime, which seeks to identify emerging threats from transversal terrorist alliances and the radicalization of the EU social climate

Research Fellowships

Stavros Costopoulos

Stavros Costopoulos Research Fellowship (2007 -)

Fellowship funded by the J.F. Costopoulos Foundation and awarded by ELIAMEP to distinguished researchers in the field of European and International Studies

In 2013 the fellowship was held by Dr. Ioannis Armakolas. Dr. Armakolas is Assistant Professor (elect) in Comparative Politics of South-East Europe at the Department of Balkan, Slavic and Oriental Studies, University of Macedonia. He holds a PhD in Social and Political Sciences from the University of Cambridge and has previously worked in universities, research centres and consulting firms in Greece and abroad. As “Stavros Costopoulos” Research Fellow, Dr Armakolas set up ELIAMEP’s South-East Europe Programme with the objective to produce high quality research on key Balkan problems, assist Greek foreign policy through the dissemination of research findings, inform the Greek and international publics, strengthen relations with organizations in all Balkan countries as well as strengthen ELIAMEP’s collaboration with European Union institutions which are responsible for the formulation of EU policies towards South-East Europe.

During the academic year 2012-13, Dr Armakolas and the team of the South-East Europe Programme continued research and publication of research findings on deeper problems as well as current political and economic developments in the Balkans. During this period, the South-East Europe Programme created an Observatory of Albanian Elections, the only of its kind internationally. Through the work of the Observatory, ELIAMEP became one of only two organizations internationally that produced regular reports and analyses on the key 2013 general elections in Albania (the other organization being the prestigious National Democratic Institute in Washington DC). ELIAMEP’s reports on the Albanian elections were widely circulated in Europe and the US and became reference documents in influential media and research organizations, including the English-language version of Wikipedia. During the same period, the South-East Europe Programme also engaged in planning and implementation of other large research projects on issues such as the impact of the financial crisis on Greece’s diplomatic and economic position in the Balkans, the prospects of the EU enlargement during the Greek Presidency of the European Council, the mutual stereotypes and attitudes between Greece and Albania, and the mutual stereotypes and attitudes between Greece and Kosovo. The above-mentioned studies will be finalized in the next academic year. In addition, a number of other brief analyses of current issues were published, among others, with a focus on Albania, Bosnia-Herzegovina, Bulgaria, Croatia, the Former Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia, Serbia-Kosovo.

The South-East Europe Programme also organized a number of discussions-events which became very popular among diplomats, journalists and academics. Among many others, the Programme hosted the Minister of Foreign Affairs of Kosovo, Mr. Enver Hoxhaj, the Minister for Kosovo and Metohija of the government of the Republic of Serbia, Mr. Aleksander Vulin, Ambassador Dimitris Moschopoulos, Chief of the Liaison Office of the Hellenic Republic in Pristina and EU Mediator for the Serbian Religious and Cultural Heritage in Kosovo, the Bulgarian Ambassador in Athens Ms. Emilia Krалеva. We have to stress that the Chatham House rule meetings that are organized by the South-

East Europe Programme have become the most important informal forum for dialogue on Balkan problems. EU and Balkan countries Ambassadors, Greek Ministry of Foreign Affairs officials, journalists and foreign policy analysts are regular participants of this informal forum.

Finally, during the academic year 2012-13, Dr Ioannis Armakolas took over the coordinating role, and more recently became the Editor in Chief, of the scholarly journal “Southeast European and Black Sea Studies”. This journal is published by UK-based Taylor & Francis, one of the top international academic publishers, in collaboration with ELIAMEP. “Southeast European and Black Sea Studies” is the only international academic journal linking these two important regions and is among the most prominent journals in the field of Area Studies.

Postdoctoral Research Fellowship with the support of the Bodossaki Foundation (2010 – 2013)

Fellowship funded by the Bodossaki Foundation and awarded by ELIAMEP to promising post-doctoral researchers in the field of European and International Studies

Following an open selection procedure, the first Bodossaki Postdoctoral Research Fellowship at ELIAMEP was awarded to Dr. George Tzogopoulos. During his term, Dr. Tzogopoulos worked on the coverage of the Greek crisis by the global media. His book entitled: The Greek drama in the media was published by Ashgate in May 2013. From November 2011 onwards Dr. Tzogopoulos is editor of ELIAMEP’s website and is doing research on American foreign policy vis-à-vis Europe and the broader Middle East.

Other

Europe Direct ELIAMEP (2009 -)

Part of a pan-European network of contact points set up and co-funded by the European Commission, the Europe Direct Information Center at ELIAMEP provides general information and raises awareness on EU-related matters at the local and national level.

In 2013, the center researched and answered over 150 questions submitted by citizens to its helpdesk. It published nearly 200 new posts on its website, which received 3,500 visits throughout the year. To further boost its impact in March 2013 it launched pages on Facebook and Twitter, gaining until the end of the year nearly 200 likes and 80 followers respectively. In addition, it actively participated in 3 events organized by third parties and organized – in cooperation with ELIAMEP – 6 of its own.

Journal of Southeast European and Black Sea Studies

The Journal of Southeast European and Black Sea Studies is the official journal of ELIAMEP, published four times a year by Taylor & Francis Group (Routledge Journals, London).

The aim of the journal is to establish a line of communication with the Balkan and Black Sea regions, which until recently remained isolated from the European mainstream and are in need of serious comparative study, as are the individual countries, no longer 'at the edge' of Europe.

The principal disciplines covered by the journal are politics, political economy, international relations and modern history; other disciplinary approaches are accepted as appropriate. The journal will take both an academic and also a more practical policy-oriented approach and hopes to compensate for the serious information deficit on the countries under consideration. It provides a unique opportunity to establish a new paradigm of analysis for the region and one that attempts to break away from the traditional ethnocentric approaches and develop a deeper and more fruitful understanding of the area.

All research articles published in this journal have undergone rigorous peer review, based on initial editor screening and anonymized refereeing by at least two anonymous referees.

South-East Europe and Black Sea Studies is abstracted/indexed in:

- America: History and Life;
- C S A Worldwide Political Science Abstracts (Cambridge Scientific Abstracts);
- Current Abstracts;
- Historical Abstracts;
- Humanities International Index;
- Index Islamicus;
- International Bibliography of the Social Sciences;
- OCLC;
- Sociological Abstracts;
- Social Sciences Citation Index;
- Social Scisearch;
- Journal Citation Reports/ Social Sciences Edition.

The Journal received its first Impact Factor in 2010.

In 2013 the 13th volume of the journal was published. The second issue was dedicated to "Migration, transnationalism and development in South-East Europe and the Black Sea region".

In the Media

Year after year, ELIAMEP's presence in the Greek and foreign media grows, serving one of the Foundation's main objectives which is to raise public awareness and provide valid analysis on issues related to European policy and international affairs. In 2013, its academic staff, research fellows and associates had a dynamic presence in the media with articles, interviews and quotations in newspapers, journals, radio and television stations from all around the world.

Articles written by ELIAMEP researchers and associates were published in well-known, widely circulated Greek newspapers and portals, such as Capital.gr, Ependitis, Ethnos, Kathimerini, Protagon.gr, Ta Nea, To Vima, Journalists' Newspapers, The TOC, but also in foreign press and magazines, such as Global Times, Die Zeit and Le Monde.

Furthermore, in response to current important internal and international issues, such as the economic crisis, the political and social situation of Greece, European policy, the developments in Middle East and other international political issues, ELIAMEP representatives gave interviews to Greek and foreign television and radio stations and printed media. Among other were ABC, Al Jazeera, ARD, ARTE TV, Associated Press, Bloomberg, BBC, CCTV, CNBC, Deutsche Presse Agentur, Die Zeit, EU Observer, Financial Times, France 24, Frankfurter Allgemeine Zeitung, La Repubblica, La Vanguardia, La Razon, Le Figaro, Le Temps, Neue Zürcher Zeitung, RAI radio, Reuters, RTL, Russia Today, Sveriges Radio, Tagesspiegel, TBS, The Guardian, The Wall Street Journal, Voice of Russia and ZDF.

In conclusion, in 2013 ELIAMEP proved once again that it is considered as an independent and reliable reference point for journalists with regard to matters of national, European and global interest, gaining wide recognition in Greece and beyond its borders.

Online Presence

In 2013 ELIAMEP continued its effort to further expand its web-presence. In particular, the Foundation's main website reinforced its role as a central channel of communication for disseminating information on a daily basis about our activities, publications, events and initiatives.

Special emphasis was given to the presence of ELIAMEP representatives in domestic and international media as well as to new research programmes, such as "A New Pact for Europe", "From Austerity to Prosperity", "CONFRONT", "ASSESS", "FRAGMEX" and "Integration Policies: who benefits?". The website also offered special links where material related to the crisis in Turkey and in Ukraine could be founded. These links were being systematically updated covering developments.

Through the usage of social media, mainly Youtube, Facebook and Twitter, our Foundation managed to significantly improve its network and enhance the debate on its publications and activities.

Finally, ELIAMEP continued to develop its content partnerships with the renowned European information portals such as EURACTIV.

Our Researchers' Activities

Dia ANAGNOSTOU, Senior Research Fellow

In early 2013, Dia Anagnostou took up her new position as Assistant Professor at the Department of Public Administration at Panteion University of Social and Political Sciences, where she teaches courses on comparative politics, European integration and human rights. In February of the same year, she participated in the MEDIADDEM final event in Brussels where she gave a talk on "The freedom and independence of public service media in a plural media environment". In March, Anagnostou presented a paper on "Recasting legal opportunities in transnational space: Ethnic and racial minorities in the Strasbourg Court" at the European Consortium of Political Research (ECPR)

Joint Sessions in the workshop convened on the theme of "Legal mobilization in comparative perspective," in Mainz, Germany. In April, she attended the third consortium meeting for the ANTICORRP Project in Florence. In November 2013, Anagnostou gave a talk on European institutions, minorities and the case of the Muslims of Thrace, at a conference held at Komotini on the theme "The Lausanne Treaty: 90 years later". In the fall of 2013, Anagnostou became involved in two new research projects, one on the Roma and trafficking (CONFRONT, funded by the European Commission under ISEC) and one on vulnerable immigrants and integration (ASSESS, funded by the European Commission under the European Integration Fund). Within 2013, Anagnostou published an edited collection of studies on The European Court of Human Rights: Implementing the Strasbourg's Judgments into Domestic Policy (Edinburgh University Press), and she was co-editor of and contributor to a special issue on gender equality and legal mobilization in Europe, which was published in the Canadian Journal of Law and Society (Cambridge University Press).

Ioannis ARMAKOLAS, Stavros Costopoulos Research Fellow

Dr. Ioannis Armakolas is Stavros Costopoulos Research Fellow at ELIAMEP and Head of the Foundation's South-East Europe Programme. He's also Editor in Chief of the academic journal Southeast European and Black Sea Studies which is published by Taylor & Francis Group in collaboration with ELIAMEP. Dr. Armakolas is Assistant Professor in Comparative Politics of South-East Europe at the Department of Balkan, Slavic and Oriental Studies, University of Macedonia (Thessaloniki). He teaches comparative politics, politics and society in Central and Eastern Europe, conflict analysis, and post-Yugoslav politics.

In the context of ELIAMEP's South-East Europe Programme Dr. Armakolas led or coordinated research on a number of projects. He co-led with Professor Dimitri Sotiropoulos the Albanian Elections Observatory, a group of analysts within ELIAMEP monitoring and analyzing developments before and after the milestone 2013 general elections in Albania. The Albanian Elections Observatory, the only of its kind internationally, published four reports, which achieved wide circulation and readership. During the same year Dr. Armakolas implemented the Friedrich Ebert Stiftung-funded project entitled "Promoting the Western Balkan accession process in the context of the Greek EU Presidency". In the context of the project, two parallel opinion polls were conducted in Greece and Albania and the findings demonstrating attitudes and mutual stereotypes and misconceptions of the two societies were presented in Athens and Tirana. Dr. Armakolas coordinated the research project "How is the sovereign debt crisis affecting Greece's relations with the Balkan countries and Greece's standing the region? An initial impact assessment", which was funded by Eurobank and researched by Dr Ritsa Panagiotou and Mr. Anastasis Valvis. Finally, in 2013 research for the Kosovo Foundation for Open Society-funded research project "Building new bridges in the Balkans: Understanding misconceptions between Greece and Kosovo" was conducted and the findings will be published in the following year.

In 2013 Dr. Armakolas gave lectures and papers at the workshop "Cultural policies and corridors in the Balkans and Turkey" organized by the University of Pennsylvania, at the conference "22 Years of International Development Assistance to Southeast Europe (1991-2013): Lessons for Donors and Recipients" organized by the University of the Peloponnese and the Balkans International Network, at the conference "Debating contemporary Albanian-Greek relations" organized by the Albanian Institute for International Studies, and the annual workshop of the Movement of Catholic Scientists and Intellectuals of Greece. Dr. Armakolas also taught at the international MA programme in Southeast European Studies of the University of Athens and the international summer school entitled "Nationalism, religion and violence in SE Europe" organized by the Hellenic International University.

In 2013 Dr. Armakolas published with ELIAMEP the following papers:

- "The Greek Public Opinion towards Albania and the Albanians: Social Attitudes and Perceptions", Research Report, December 2013
- "Babylution": A Civic Awakening in Bosnia and Herzegovina?", ELIAMEP working paper no 34, August 2013 (with Maja Maksimovic)
- "The Continuing Political Crisis in Bulgaria", ELIAMEP Briefing Note 21, July 2013 (with Boyka Boneva)
- "The Beginning of the End for Kosovo Problem? The Agreement on Normalization of Relations Between Belgrade and Pristina and its Aftermath", ELIAMEP Briefing Note 15, May 2013 (with Maja Maksimovic)
- "A Balkan hotspot: The controversy over the UCPMB War memorial in the Precevo Valley", ELIAMEP Briefing Note 10, April 2013 (with Maja Maksimovic)
- "Serbia's Resolution on Kosovo and Metohija and the Belgrade-Pristina dialogue: Is there a solution after the resolution?", ELIAMEP Briefing Note 9, March 2013 (with Maja Maksimovic)

- Albanian Elections Observatory Brief no. 1 (19 April 2013), no. 2 (27 May 2013), no. 3 (19 June 2013), no. 4 (13 September 2013) (all co-authored with group of experts)

Michaela Maroufouf presented the findings of the MOVEACT research project in an event organized by ELIAMEP, in cooperation with the Europe Direct center it hosts, held in Athens in January, titled "All Citizens Now": Intra-EU Mobility and the European Crisis'. During the same month she presented a paper on undocumented immigrants and domestic work in Greece in a conference titled 'The Hesitant Pace of Migration Policy in the Greece of Crisis', organized by EPLO, in Athens. She authored the chapter "With all the cares in the world": Irregular migrant domestic workers in Greece' in 'Irregular Migrant Domestic Workers in Europe: Who Cares?' edited by Anna Triandafyllidou, published by Ashgate and she co-authored with Anna Triandafyllidou the chapter 'EU citizenship and intra EU mobility: a virtuous circle even in times of crisis' in 'The Euro Crisis and the State of European Democracy', edited by Bruno de Witte, Adrienne Héritier and Alexander H. Trechsel, published by the European University Institute. In the framework of the IRMA research project she published a background report on Georgia titled "Irregular migration between Georgia and Greece: everyone can cross a 'low fence'" and she presented her preliminary findings on Georgian irregular migration on the launch event of project, organized by ELIAMEP in July. Finally, in December she participated in a public debate on migration and migration policy in Greece organized in Athens, within the framework of 'Money Show', by the NGO Ioannis Kapodistrias, where she focused on policy issues with regards to domestic work.

Marina NIKOLOVA, Junior Research Fellow

Marina Nikolova is a PhD candidate in the University of Peloponnese, Department of Social and Educational Policy. She is part of the ELIAMEP Migration Research Team and in 2013 was mainly involved in the research of the Ukrainian migration to Greece for the project "IRMA - Governing Irregular Migration: States, Actors and Intermediaries", funded by the General Secretariat of Research and Technology. She completed interviews with main actors in the Ukrainian migration communities in Greece, with public servants in Athens and with key actors from related organisations in Ukraine. As a result of the initial primary and secondary research, she finalized the background report: "Ukrainian migration in Greece: There and back again and straight ahead for one more time", Deliverable 2.1, IRMA Project Governing Irregular Migration. The findings were presented at the launch event of the project IRMA which took place in Athens, July 2013. Marina

Nikolova - together with Eda Gemi, is national coordinator for Greece of the European Web Site on Integration (EWSI), with main coordinators for all the 28 EU member-states Migration Policy Group in Brussels. In April, she took part at the Workshop: "Innovative Technologies in Migration Services" in the framework of the 12th International Federation for Information Processing (IFIP) Conference on e-Business, e-Services, e-Society entitled "Collaborative, trusted and privacy aware e/m-services" I3E 2013 in Athens co-organized by the University of Pireus and presented "The European Website for Integration: An online community in practice". Together with Prof. Anna Triandafyllidou, co-authored the chapter "Bulgarian migration in Greece: Past trends and current challenges" in Dimitrova, T. and Kahl, T. (eds) Migration from and towards Bulgaria, Berlin: Frank and Timme. The paper "Irregular migrants in Greece: problems in health service provision" was presented at the conference "The hesitant pace of migration policy in the Greece of crisis" organized by the European Public Law Organization (EPLO) in Athens, in January 2013.

Eleni Panagiotarea, Research Fellow

Dr. Eleni Panagiotarea published her book 'Greece in the Euro: Economic Delinquency or System Failure?' with ECPR Press (August 2013), in the monograph series. She was invited to officially launch the book in a specially convened panel session, in the context of the 7th ECPR General Conference (Sciences Po Bordeaux, 4-7 September 2013), titled "Europe and the Financial Crisis: A Political System in Formation?". On the same conference, Eleni also presented a paper, 'To Cut or not to Cut? A Cautionary Tale of Fiscal Discipline in Times of Austerity' in the panel on "Budgetary Responses to the Fiscal Crisis: Changes in Budgeting Practices and Institutions". She also participated in the SPERI (Sheffield Political Economy Research Institute) Annual Conference (1-3 July, 2013), "Beyond Austerity vs Growth: The Future of the European Political Economy", where she presented a paper on 'Stuck with Austerity? Time to Bring Politics and National Varieties of Capitalism Back In'. Both the ECPR and the SPERI papers have been part of Eleni's ongoing research in the context of a research grant received by the Onassis Public Benefit Foundation, aimed to examine the effects of troika-based adjustment on national democratic processes of economic decision-making. Eleni wrote a research paper for ELIAMEP's Crisis Observatory, 'IMF in the Eurozone: A Case of Too Close to Fail?' (No 6, June 2013). She also wrote a policy paper for the Observatory, 'Squaring the Circle? Understanding the Legitimacy of Conditionality' (no 2, March 2013), which was one of the four background papers for ELIAMEP's 10th European Seminar, "Europe in Crisis, Citizens in Protest" (4-7 July, 2013). Finally, she submitted written evidence to the House of Lords, European Union Select Committee, on 'The Role of National Parliaments in the European Union' (27 September, 2013).

Evangelia PSYCHOGIOPOULOU, Research Fellow

In 2013, Dr. Evangelia Psychogiopoulou, research fellow at ELIAMEP, coordinated the EU-funded research programme MEDIADDEM (European Media Policies Revisited: Valuing & Reclaiming Free and Independent Media in Contemporary Democratic Systems). In this context, she engaged in various research, project management and dissemination activities. In February 2013, she participated in MEDIADDEM's final conference 'Media freedom and independence: Trends and challenges in Europe', organised by the Hellenic Foundation for European and Foreign Policy, the European Platform of Regulatory Authorities and the Association of European Journalists in Brussels (Belgium). The event was hosted by the Representation of the Free State of Bavaria to the European Union and Evangelia Psychogiopoulou delivered a speech on 'Introduction to the MEDIADDEM project, aims and achievements'. In the framework of the MEDIADDEM project, she also produced the following publications: a) 'Policy implications of MEDIADDEM, an EU-funded research project on media policies in 14 countries for media freedom and independence' (third MEDIADDEM policy brief, available at: <http://www.mediadem.eliamep.gr/findings>); b) 'Media policy-making in Greece: Lessons from digital terrestrial television and the restructuring of public service broadcasting', 9 International Journal of Media and Cultural Politics, no. 2, 133-152 (co-authored with A. Kandyla); and c) 'Europees Hof voor de Rechten van de Mens, 29 februari 2013, nr. 40397/12, Neij en Sunde Kolmisoppi tegen Zweden, Pirate Bay, internet, copyright', 14 European Human Rights Cases (8-20 August 2013), 1949-1956.

From April 2014 onwards, Evangelia Psychogiopoulou has been involved in the EU-funded research project 'ANTICORRP' (Anticorruption Policies Revisited. Global Trends and European Responses to the Challenge of Corruption). Together with her colleague, D. Anagnostou, she has been responsible for the scientific coordination of work package 10 of the project, 'Monitoring anticorruption legislation and enforcement in Europe'. This seeks to reach a better understanding of the pertinence and effectiveness of the rules adopted by international organisations and European regional organisations (i.e. the EU and the Council of Europe) in curbing corruption. In May 2013, she participated at the third ANTICORRP consortium meeting, which took place in Florence (Italy).

In addition, during 2013, Evangelia Psychogiopoulou continued her research in the fields of human rights and EU cultural policies. She authored the following book chapters: 'The EU and cultural rights', in A.F. Vrdoljak (ed.), The cultural dimension of human rights law, 159-185 (Oxford University Press); and b) 'Under what conditions do national authorities implement the ECtHR's rulings and rights-expansive policy change? Religious and ethnic minorities in Greece', in D. Anagnostou (ed.), The European Court of Human Rights: Implementing Strasbourg's judgments on domestic policy, 143-165 (Edinburgh University Press) (co-authored with D. Anagnostou). She also published the following journal article: 'State aids to the publishing industry and cultural policies in Europe', European State Aid Law Quarterly, no. 1, 69-82.

In June 2013, she participated in the conference 'Culture and international economic law' where she presented a paper on 'Culture in the EU's external economic relations'. This conference was organised by the Faculty of Law of the University of Maastricht in Maastricht (the Netherlands). On 15 November 2013, she presented a paper entitled 'Taking cultural aspects into account in EU law and policies: An appraisal of article 167(4) TFEU' at the international symposium 'European law and cultural policies', co-organised by the Research Center on State and Constitution of the Catholic University of Louvain and the Institute for European Studies of Saint-Louis University at the European Parliament in Brussels (Belgium). In December 2013, she presented a paper on 'Welfare rights in Greece: The role of fundamental rights challenges' at the workshop 'Social rights in crisis in the Eurozone: The role of fundamental rights challenges', organised by the Law Department of the European University Institute in Florence (Italy).

Dimitri A. Sotiropoulos, Senior Research Fellow

In February, Dimitri traveled to Oxford and gave a presentation on the social and political consequences of the economic crisis in South Eastern Europe. His seminar, which took place in St. Antony's College, Oxford, focused on data on post-communist South Eastern societies, before and after the economic crisis.

In March, Dimitri was invited by the Friedrich Ebert Stiftung in Berlin where he participated in a panel discussing the consequences of the economic crisis in Greece. This was a public event organized by this institution at its central headquarters.

In April, he participated in a two-day long conference of the University of the Aegean, on Lesbos island, where he presented a paper on civic associations in Greece in the period following the transition to democracy (1974).

In June, Dimitri participated in the international conference of the Council of European Studies (CES), which took place in Amsterdam. He presented a paper on state management in South European countries during the economic crisis.

In July, Dimitri took part in ELIAMEP's European Seminar, which this year took place in Nafplion. He made a presentation on the response of Greek civil society to the challenges and social consequences of the economic crisis in Greece. In the same month, he also made a similar presentation in the 'Seminars of Ermoupolis', an annual series of seminars, organized by Greece's National Science Foundation (EIE) at Ermoupolis, Syros island.

In September, Dimitri participated in the General Conference of the European Consortium for Political Research (ECPR) in Bordeaux. He was a co-convenor of a panel discussion on changes in the welfare states of Southern Europe in the wake of the economic crisis.

In October, Dimitri participated in a panel of speakers who discussed 'The Role of Higher Education' on a one-day conference titled 'Educating for the Modern Global Economy'. The conference was organised by the Salzburg Global Seminar and the Athens Office of the Fulbright Foundation, in Athens. In the same month, Dimitri published a chapter in the edited volume titled Greek Paradoxes: Patronage, Civil Society and Violence (edited by Katerina Rozakou and Helleni Gkara, Athens: Alexandria editions). His contribution was titled "Patronage relations and new forms of political participation" (in Greek).

In November, Dimitri published a chapter in an edited volume titled The Palgrave Handbook of Social Democracy in the European Union (edited by Jean-Michel De Waele, Fabien Escalona and Mathieu Vieira, London: Palgrave 2013) which came out in that month. Dimitri's publication, titled "The Panhellenic Socialist Movement", was on the Greek socialist party in the 2000s. In the same month, he traveled to Helsinki, to the United Nations University, where he participated in a workshop on international aid and state building. Dimitri presented a paper on international aid in a post-conflict environment and compared the cases of Greece and Italy in the immediate post-WWII period (1944-1951). He also traveled to London for a workshop organized in the context of ANTICORRP, a research project in which ELIAMEP is a partner. He presented a paper on accountability and transparency mechanisms in Bulgaria and Romania since their accession to the European Union. This paper was part of the project's Work Package 11.

In December, Dimitri was invited to the University of Bremen, where he presented a paper on the civil society in Greece in the wake of the economic crisis and also participated in a day-long conference on the future of European integration in view of the 2014 European Parliament elections. In the same month, he also gave a public talk in Athens in the context of a workshop on Greek-Albanian relations organized by ELIAMEP's Southeast Europe Programme. He discussed ELIAMEP's attitudinal sample survey of perceptions of Greeks towards Albanians. In the same month, Dimitri published a chapter in the edited volume State, Economy, Society (19th-20th centuries): Essays in Honour of Professor George B. Dertilis (edited by Ada Dialla and Niki Maroniti, Athens: Metaichmio). His contribution was titled "George Dertilis' 'Power Web' and the Two Worlds of Greece's Post-War Party Politics, 1950-1967" (in English).

Finally, Dimitri continued to publish book reviews and opinion articles in the Athens Sunday newspaper To Vima tis Kyriakis. In 2013 he published 9 book reviews and 2 opinion articles.

George TZOGOPOULOS, Research Fellow and Website Editor

In 2013 Dr George Tzogopoulos published his book The Greek Crisis in the Media: Stereotyping in the International Press (Ashgate). The Greek Crisis in the Media debates and dissects the extent to which the Greek response to the financial crisis has been given fair and balanced coverage by the press and questions how far politics and national stereotypes have played their part in the reporting of events. By placing the Greek experiences and treatment alongside those of other EU members such as Portugal, Ireland, Italy and Spain, Tzogopoulos examines and highlights similarities and differences in the ways in which different countries tackled the challenges they faced during this crucial period and explores how and why the world's media reported these events.

Additionally, Tzogopoulos participated in projects such as the 2014 ECFR Scorecard and V-DEM. He also published the following articles and book chapters:

- ‘Interpreting the Greek crisis: The British media perspective’, Greece and Britain since 1945, David Wills, Cambridge Scholars Publishing
- ‘Is a Greek success story possible?’ Süddeuropa Mitteilungen, September 2013
- ‘Griechische Politik und die Goldene Morgenröte’, Religion und Gesellschaft in Ost und West, June 2013
- ‘The other side of Greece’s international image’, Briefing Note, ELIAMEP, May 2013
- ‘Greece and the EEAS’, EPC Paper, No 33, March 2013 (With Ruby Gropas)
